UN expert: Israel's Gaza attacks possibly a 'war crime'

A Palestinian woman looks at the damage to her home in Gaza after Israeli forces fired a barrage of rockets into the city on March 23.

UNITED NATIONS - A top United Nations expert has said that Israel's attacks on Gaza could be considered a "war crime" under international law. The expert, Richard Goldstone, is the head of the International Commission of Inquiry into the 2004-2005 Gaza conflict. He said that the Israeli military's actions in Gaza, including the use of heavy weapons against civilians, could be considered a violation of the laws of war. Goldstone's report is part of a larger investigation into the conflict, which has resulted in the deaths of over 1,400 people and the displacement of tens of thousands more. The report is expected to be released in the coming months.

US unveils toxic asset plan; markets rally

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP) — The U.S. Treasury Department unveiled a plan Tuesday to buy up toxic assets from banks, a move that sent stock markets around the world rallying.

The plan, known as the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP), would allow the Treasury to purchase up to $700 billion of toxic assets from banks and other financial institutions. The assets would be placed in a new government-owned entity, the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP), which would then sell them to private investors.

The plan was unveiled after a series of meetings between Treasury Secretary Henry Paulson and President Barack Obama. The plan was also approved by the House of Representatives.

The plan is expected to be signed into law by President Obama on Wednesday. The plan is expected to be a major step in the U.S. government's effort to stabilize the financial system.

Out-of-body experience during sleep happens to many people

Many people have experienced an out-of-body experience (OBE) at some point in their lives. It's a strange phenomenon where you feel like you're floating above your body or seeing yourself from an external perspective. Some people report feeling a sense of detachment from their physical form, while others describe a feeling of being pulled out of their bodies. The experience can be both terrifying and exhilarating, and it's often accompanied by a sense of floating or flying. Some people believe that OBEs are a sign of a spiritual awakening, while others think they're just a result of a sleep disorder. Whatever the cause, OBEs are a common experience that many people have encountered at least once in their lives.

Do you easily run out of breath when exercising? You may be anemic

By Anne M. Johnson
If you're a runner, you know how frustrating it can be when you start a run and feel like you're running through molasses. You might find yourself gasping for breath, even when you're not pushing yourself too hard. This could be a sign of anemia, a condition where your body doesn't have enough healthy red blood cells to carry oxygen to your tissues. Anemia is a common condition that affects millions of people, and it can cause a variety of symptoms, including fatigue, weakness, and shortness of breath. If you're experiencing these symptoms, it's important to see a doctor to get a blood test to check for anemia. If you are anemic, your doctor will likely recommend iron supplements to help increase your red blood cell count. Iron is a key component of hemoglobin, the protein in red blood cells that carries oxygen. Without enough iron, your body can't produce enough healthy red blood cells, which can lead to anemia. So, if you're having trouble breathing when you exercise, it might be time to get a blood test to see if you're anemic.

Roll back to the first time I saw Bearty in the flesh. It was a long time ago, and I was a young girl. I remember the excitement of seeing a new movie, and the way the characters felt so real. I was drawn into the story, and I was hooked from the very beginning.

The story is about a young girl who is born with a rare condition that makes her skin turn a deep red color. She is called Bearty, and she is the only one of her kind. She grows up in a world where she is different, and she has to learn to live with it. The movie is a beautiful story of a girl who is different, and who is loved for who she is. It is a story that is both heartwarming and inspiring.
